Southeast Takes League Title 52-48

Stevie Burks scored five of his 29 points in the last 1:45 Saturday to lead Southeast High School to a 52-48 squeaker over Lincoln for the Inter-scholastic League championship.

Central High overcame a 33-16 half-time deficit and dumped Paseo 73-60 for third place.

Burks, who was awarded the George Taylor Memorial award as the game's most valuable player, led all scorers. Tony Snow had 16 points for Lincoln.

Lincoln pulled to within one point with 44 seconds to play when Brian Harris, who had 10 points on the night, sank two free throws and made it 47-46, Southeast. Burks came back eight seconds later to hit a field goal and pull Southeast away. He added one from the charity stripe with 17 seconds to go to make it 50-46 and put it virtually out of reach for Lincoln.

Specialist's Advice

Career Education for All Ages

By Vicky Wasserman

Career education should begin the day students enter kindgergarten, a career education specialist told school officials Saturday.

DR. BARBARA FULTON

Dr. Barbara Fulton, career education specialist and counselor in behavioral studies at the University of Missouri-St. Louis, told teachers and administrators at the Kansas City School District's career education workshop that such programs are not only for junior and senior high school students.

Dr. Fulton has been helping educators prepare and improve career education programs since 1971. She has served as counsel to Sidney Marlind, former commissioner of education, and advised administrators on how to include career education in their programs.

"The main objective of career education," Dr. Fulton said, "is to teach students what the responsibilities of different professions are and to help them choose occupations that they will be happy doing for 20 years or more."

She mentioned a need to involve career education in all classes, not "just the ones that are geared for students going into business or bound for college."

One of the keys to a successful career education program, Dr. Fulton said, is giving students the chance to associate with and talk to people in various vocations.

"One of the ways to activate this idea is to teach students the art of interviewing people the day they enter school," she said.

Children learn most about employment opportunities and related responsibilities by asking questions of people they meet at grocery stores, banks, schools, department stores and other places they visit, she said.

Dr. Fulton said one popular misconception about career education is that it is only for the slower high school students or the ones who seem as if they'll never amount to anything.

"However," she said, "people who are under this assumption are wrong, because career education is for all students, whether or not they are smart or dumb, rich or poor, or ambitious or unmotivated."

Career education helps educators as well as students, she said, because it teaches them of students' needs and helps them avoid educational redundancies such as "learning about the hazards of tooth decay and the effects of the Civil War seven times in their primary education."

A Night of Jazz at Southeast

Students at Southeast High School who normally spend time with Bach and Brahms have been making the acquaintance of Lester Young and John Coltrane in the classroom these days.

The occasion has been Young Audiences' Jazz Intensity Project. A new undertaking for Young Audiences (the local chapter of the national organization that brings musical programs to schools), the results of the project go on public display at 7:30 p.m. Thursday when Southeast's jazz and stage bands join six well-known area musicians in concert at the school.

Clinicians Milt Abel, Ron McCurdy, Tommy Ruskin, Danny Embry, Bob Ousley and Bill Drybread have been working with Southeast groups since Jan. 23. In addition, project coordinator Dick Wright has led weekly history sessions on Young, Coltrane, Charlie Parker, Count Basie and Billie Holliday, drawing on his rare film collection of jazz artists.

The entire school got a taste of what was going on in the music department through assemblies held during "Black History Week" featuring the Kansas City Jazz Quintet, a local group that performs exclusively for Young Audiences.

"The basic idea," explained B.J. Bucker, executive director of Young Audiences, "was to present to a cross-section of high school students the rich Kansas City jazz heritage plus the current jazz scene, as well as to allow young aspiring instrumentalists to work with professionals in clinic situations." She said Southeast was chosen because an excellent jazz and stage band program led by Charles Dorch already existed there.

Raging Waters Kill 18

A ravaging flood, one of the worst natural disasters in the area's history, has killed at least 18 persons in Kansas City and surrounding areas and devastated many areas of the city.

Police in Kansas City were searching for as many as 40 missing persons. Suburban police departments were searching for dozens more.

The plush Country Club Plaza area was among the hardest hit last night and early today. There, damage was caused by both the raging waters of Brush Creek and a massive explosion and fire that destroyed most of the 600 block of West 48th.

Robert Kipp, city manager, contacted Mayor Charles B. Wheeler in London today, telling him, "The physical destruction is disastrous beyond description."

City officials said today the flooding along Brush Creek was at the so-called "500-year level"—meaning that it is the kind of flood expected to occur once every five centuries.

Tales of heroism and human suffering abounded as heavy thunderstorms moved through the area, knocking out electricity, telephones and natural gas service. Thousands of homes were damaged by roaring waters from usually tame creeks and drainage ditches. Basements were inundated by water pouring in from outside or by belching sewer lines backing up.

Hundreds of persons had to flee their homes and seek shelter from the rising waters.

ris A. Yale, 29, of Blue Springs, whose body was recovered near a creek ¾ of a mile from R.D. Mize Road and 8th Street in Blue Springs.

Earlier in the day the body of the Rev. Harold A. Thomas, 42, of 4010 W. 58th, Fairway, was discovered at U.S. 50 and Benton in Kansas City, almost 6 miles east of where he disappeared Monday night. He was a pastor of the Linwood United Church.

As the search for victims continued, hundreds of city employees, utility company workers and private contractors worked around the clock to bring some semblance of order to the chaos created by the flood.

Electricity, natural gas and telephone service were gradually restored to most customers, the utility companies said yesterday, and only the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company reported any major problems.

A spokesman for the phone company said 10,000 phone connections had been repaired or replaced since the flooding Monday night, but as fast as crews could replace the lines they discovered new problems. The spokesman estimated that 12,000 phone lines still must be put back in service and said the problems are spread throughout the metropolitan area. Some lines, he said, may not be back in service before tomorrow.

Most major roads closed by the flooding were opened by rush hour yesterday, with the major exception being Chouteau Trafficway in Kansas City, North. That road was closed because of damage to the dam at Winnwood Lake, just south of I-35 a half-block east of Chouteau. Chouteau was closed last night from I-35 south to Parvin Road.

Officials said the dam at the 14-acre lake was so weakened that the lake was being drained, perhaps spelling the end for the old private lake that once was a popular swimming spot for thousands.

Schools and businesses that had been closed because of the flooding were open in most areas, including the General Motors Assembly Plant in the Leeds area, where workers were told to report for duty yesterday afternoon.

Electrical power to the G.M. plant was disrupted Monday because of flooding at the Kansas City Power & Light Co. Leeds substation at 4155 Raytown Road. Don Landes of K.C.P.& L. said that the substation was being cleaned of mud and water yesterday and that six circuits had been restored, giving power to the G.M. plant and to the nearby Harry S. Truman Sports Complex, where about 16,000 persons attended the Kansas City Royals-Oakland A's doubleheader last night.

Landes and Al Singer of the Gas Service Company both reported that service had been restored "to most customers who have requested it," but about 1,000 customers of each company were unable to have power restored because of standing water.

Robert Wheeler, Kansas City superintendent of schools, yesterday toured six schools damaged by the floods and announced that Leeds Junior High School, 3541 Fremont, would reopen today and that transportation schedules would be back to normal there. All schools in the district will be open today, he said, but school will be out tomorrow for teacher workshops.

Cleanup

Officials reported that cleanup operations throughout the area are going smoothly, although police broadcast an appeal for persons to stay away from the Country Club Plaza area so operations there could continue without interruptions.

City officials said a traffic plan for the Plaza would be worked out so that shoppers going to the Plaza stores still in operation could come and go without interrupting cleanup operations. Shoppers were asked to leave the area directly after finishing their shopping.

Robert Kipp, city manager, said city employees, many of whom were pulled off their regular work details to help in flood cleanup operations, will go through the Plaza today to make sure safety hazards such as loose wires and open manholes are removed.

Glen Hopkins, deputy city manager, was assigned to supervise assistance to the other flood-damaged areas.

In the flooded areas along the Blue River from 15th Street south to 63rd, extra plastic trash bags were being de

The Office Assistants at Southeast are essential in the efficient operation of the main office. They help handle the calls that are constantly pouring in to the Main office. They sometimes have to deal with irrate students and parents and they have to do so with the same patience and maturity as any one of the administrators or office staff.

The Office Assistants are in the office for one class hour and receive class credit, but they often have to work very hard in the office. While in the office they have to incorporate the skills of effective speaking, writing as learned in their Business and English courses. The Office Assistants find that these acquired skills prone to be helpful, needed and very worthwhile. It takes a unique person with friendliness, patience, and tolerance to be a good office assistant and the office assistants at Southeast are the best.

Mu Alpha Theta, A Math Club With Motivated Students

Mu Alpha Theta consists of a group of students who have excelled in math. They volunteer their time to help tutor other students that have trouble in math courses. This year Mu Alpha Theta was instrumental in the addition of a one semester math course that will be available to next year's students. Many of these students compete with other students in the Kansas City area in a math relay that is held towards the end of the school year. The sponsor of Mu Alpha Theta is Mrs. C. Julian.

Beta Convention '78

The Southeast Beta Club attended the National Beta Club Convention in St. Louis, Missouri. The convention was held from March 31 through April 2 at the Stouffers Towers Hotel. Upon registering and settling in, the club's first duty was to rehearse for the following evening's Talent Program and attend the first general session. We were warmly welcomed and introduced to this year's reigning officers. After a brief outline to what we would be doing, the club presented its candidate for state secretary, Brigitte Burgette. Brigitte was the eventual winner.

When the first general session was over the club returned to the hotel for a variety of activities.

Saturday morning was full of activities as the club attended the second general session and was busy accumulating votes for its candidate. It was at this session that all of the clubs were introduced by their presidents. Our president, Patricia Walker, also introduced our sponsor, Mrs. Holloway and our chaperones. At the end of the session, the club members toured the city and its surrounding aarea. Some chose to ride up the Gateway Arch, while others strolled downtown to see what was to be found. At the completion of their sightseeing, all members were to report back to the hotel in time for the evening session. The highlight of this session was the Talent Competition. With its entry of the original skit, Beta Land', the Southeast Beta Club brought home the first place trophy in the feature division. This long day was concluded by a Beta Club dance featuring music by Ken Barken and the Gina Mori Band.

Bright and early Sunday morning, a tired and sleepy Southeast boarded the bus for home with a greater knowledge of the Beta Club and its members. The Beta Club is richer for its memories of the 'CONVENTION OF '78'.

The awaited acquisition of new, colorful uniforms activated even more incentive to this already spirited club. These uniforms consist of the newly attained red skirts, red turtlenecks, and blue sweaters with the Knights-head emblem on the front, and the mighty name of Southeast accentuated across the back. For cold weather red pants are worn.

A noted addition this year was the creation of the Honor Nine. These nine lucky girls proudly displayed, letter by letter, the renowned name of our school, Southeast. Their uniforms consisted of a red blouson top with blue skirts.

The Pep Club sponsor, Ms. D. Wilson, emanates constant enthusiasm. Working with so great a number of girls requires diligence, organization, and many extra hours, all of which are given and deeply appreciated.

The Tumbling Team is Southeast's pride and joy. They perform many aerial tricks. Their physical dexterity is full of vigor and agility. Most of these students have backgrounds in dance, and continue to attend classes that specialize in acrobatics so as to improve their skills. Some tricks of their trade are aerial cartwheels, backflips, roundoffs, running walkovers, and handstands. They also build an artistic pyramid. An example of this is shown in the picture above.

Execution is mind over matter.

We Are Proud Of Who We Are!

This year, Southeast's Varsity Cheerleading squad has made many accomplishment for which they are very proud. Besides having the opportunity to cheer for the No. 1 team, they have won several awards at D.C.A. (Dynamite Cheerleading Assoc.) cheerleaders summer camp, they took first place in all the major awards for spirit and competition. At a recent Tournament held at Center High School, the squad received a special cheerleaders' Sportsmanship Award. Southeast is proud of their Cheerleaders this year for their excellent portrayal of spirit, competition and sportsmanship.

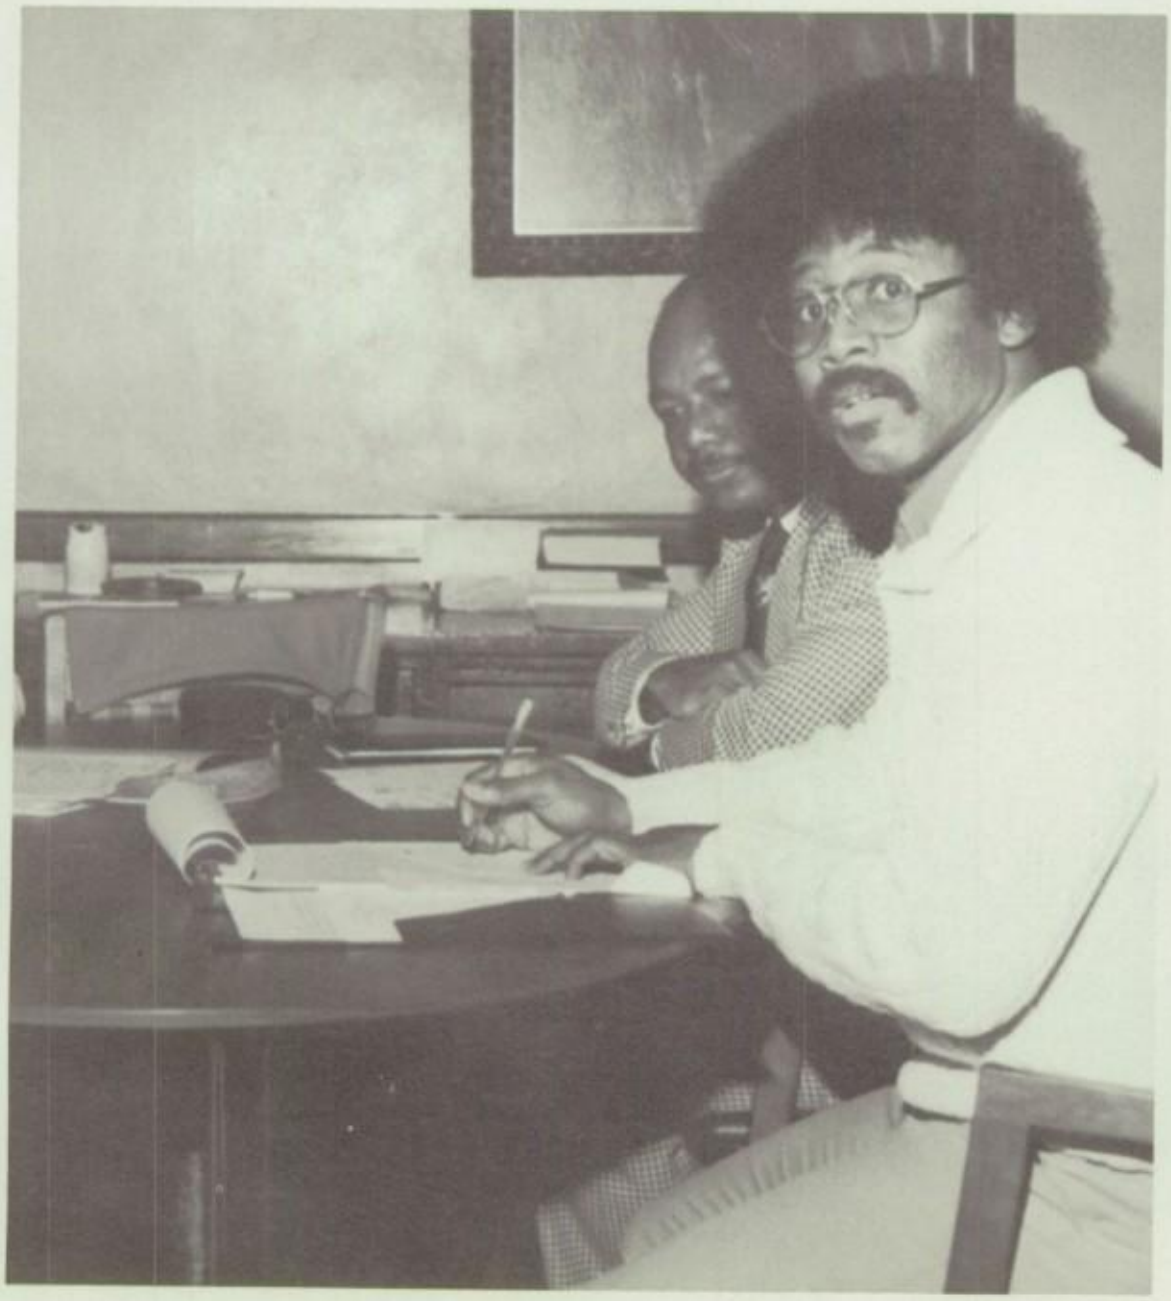
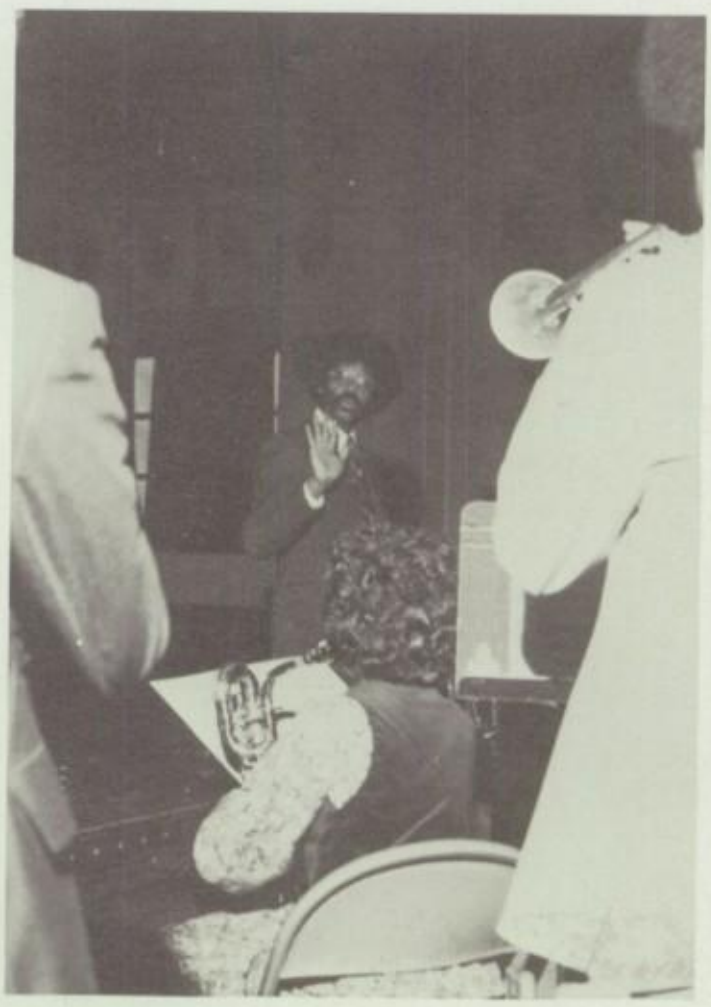
Southeast excels, not only in sports, but in scholastics, as well. This year Southeast had four students to make the semi-finals and one to make the finals in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying test.

This test was a national standardized test that put our students up against the best in the United States and to even qualify for a scholarship was a feat. The finalist was Eugene Davis and the semi-finalists were Donald Hampton, Denita Brooks, Howard Crayton and Kimberly Covington. We are sure that these students are proud to have represented their school in such an outstanding way.





High Stepping And Good Music Are Characteristic Of The Marching Band Throughout The Year.

The Marching Knights under the direction of Mr. Charles Dorch is the best Marching band in the area. They are the pride of the city and this is proven by the many civic engagements that they have throughout the year. When there is an activity in the city where a band is needed you can believe that they will call on Southeast first, because they only want the best.

When they provide entertainment at the football games, a party atmosphere is kept no matter what is happening on the field. Aside from this the Marching band has provided entertainment at professional and intercollegiate basketball and football games.

For the first time this year the NAIA held an international tournament and guess who provided halftime music? Southeast.

A good deal of hard work and practice go into making the band what it is, and that is Number one.

The Death Squad: Guaranteed to kill any hopes of their opponents' scoring. The Electric Company: Electrifies you with their lightning fast scoring drives.

These are a few of the many things said of the Southeast Knights' defense (death squad) and the offense (electric company). This year Southeast's Varsity football team was hailed as one of the best ever to come out of the area. And with an 8-2-0 record this proved to be true.

For the first time this season, the Knights had 3 men on the All-Metro squad first team and 2 on the second. They are Harrison May and Kelvin May; first team defense, and Prentis Carson on first team offense. On second team defense were Herbert Hardwick and Howard Crayton. Both Carson and Kelvin May made the All-State team.

The team as a whole gave Southeast a performance any school would envy and recognition everyone at Southeast is proud of. Knights take a bow.

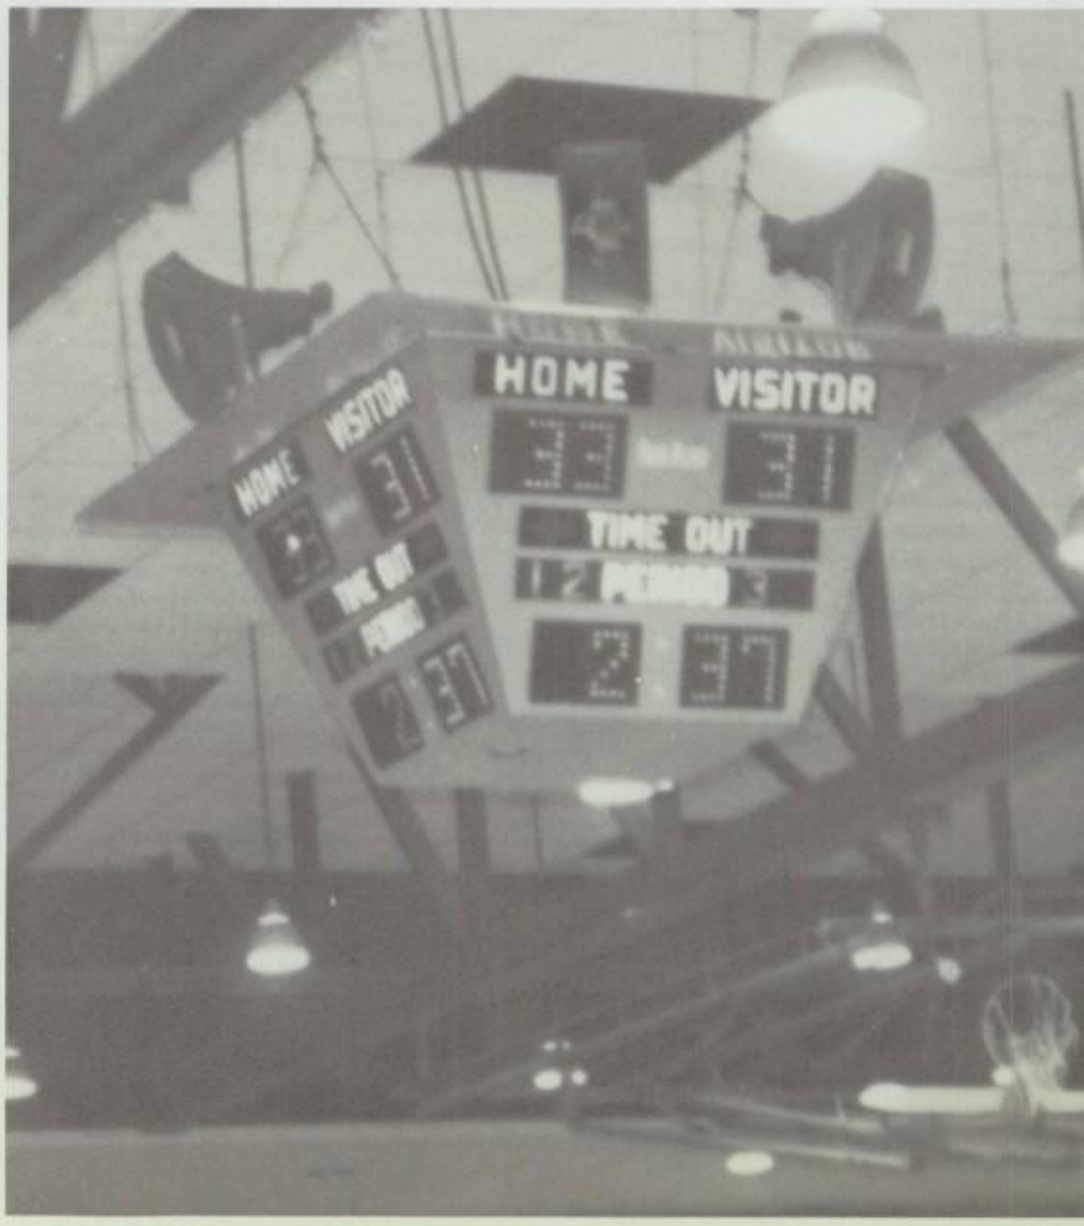
Row 1- Dean Frazier, Rodrick Davis, Paul Wright. Row 2- James Eddins, Carlton May, Coach Lee Durham.

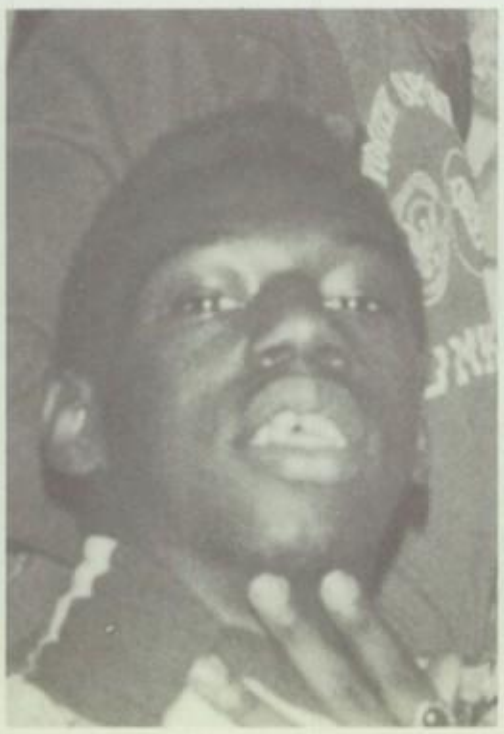
This year's Varsity basketball team under the superb coaching of Lee Durham, finished the season with a 15-6 record.

Because of great individual performances by Stevie Burks, Lee Bell, Dan Shaw, and Eugene Cheadle, the basketball team brought home several titles. The two major tournament titles won mark a milestone in the history of basketball here at Southeast.

The first was the interscholastic league tournament that was won over a field of many good teams. The second was won at Center where they defeated Shawnee Mission East for the title. The team finished second in the league and third over all in the area.

Every team has its star and Stevie Burks shines bright for the Knights. In the Interscholastic league tourney, he won the George Taylor memorial award as the M.V.P. and a sportsmanship award at Center. Burks also made the All-Metro and All-State squads. Dan Shaw, Lee Bell, and Eugene Cheadle, also put in performances that cannot be ignored for a year in basketball that wll not soon be forgotten here at Southeast.





Track Coaches Instill A Keen Sense Of Competition In Runners

Chris Ross

The team performance of the Cross Country runners is one that showed a superlative running ability that can only be obtained through hard ork and the will to achieve. With the guiding hand of Coach Reggie James. The team ran itself into a status hard to obtain anywhere in the tate. For the first time, this year Cross Country team consisted of both male and female runners. And the ladies were not dead weight.

Coach Reginald James was voted the coach of the year and rightfully so. His team finished first in the city and league, and fourth in the istrict. The varsity and J.V. teams captured their titles with girls running on both teams. Chris Ross finished 14 in a field of 75 and he finished igher than all the represented schools in the area. He was also awarded honors as the league's most valuable runner.

For the fourth consecutive year, Southeast has held what is now the largest invitational Cross Country meet in the K.C. area. A total of 35 eams from St. Louis to Springfield ran in this meet. Southeast ran in this meet and finished on top. At this year's meet, Renee Boyer was rowned the Cross Country Queen and the event was covered by K C Mo radio. Only the best teams are invited and because Southeast came out n top they are the best among the best.

Distance running is hard to do but when it is done up and down hills it is a feat. This is what Cross Country runners must do. These young en and women run an average of 20 miles a day to stay in shape and prepare for meets.

Only a person with stamina, confidence, determination and dedication can be a good cross country runner. The runners here at Southeast ave all the ingredients it takes because these men and women aren't just great, they are the greatest.

The Visit To Atlanta, Georgia Provides A Picturesque Setting Of The South For Southeast Underclassmen

From March 8 through 12, 1978, a trip that was sponsored by Philander Smith Alumni was taken to Atlanta, Georgia. Seven of Southeast's underclassmen spent four fun-filled days in Atlanta. A tour of the city included a visit to Stone Mountain where three historic figures are carved into a huge mountain. Some of the tourists from this group traveled up to the top of this mountain by cable car. Stone Mountain Park contains a gigantic carrillion that was donated by the Coca-Cola Company. Our next stop was the Martin Luther King Jr. Monument with the Ebenezer Baptist Church next to it, and across the street was the Martin Luther King Jr. Community Center. We also toured the college section of the city which included Spellman College Moorehouse College, Clark College, Atlanta University, and Morris Brown College. Other places of interest that were visited were the Peachtree Plaza Hotel and shopping center, the Hyatt Regency and the Hilton Hotel. On the last night we all dined at a restaurant called Pascals and afterwards a party was attended at the Hilton Hotel. We all had an enjoyable time. Much thanks goes to our hostess, Mrs. Frances Hill.

The corridors of the future are lighted with images of past achievements and actions. These images will forever be reflections of a new beginning.

R.O.T.C. stands for the Reserve Officers Training Corps; It can help you in civilian life as well as military life. You learn some of the basic techniques in such things as; military organization, first aid, military courtesy, and the handling and care of firearm. The Southeast R.O.T.C. Brigade has participated annually in events such as; Veteran's Day Parade, Southeast Homecoming Parade, and the Annual Formal Inspection in which all the cadets are inspected by regular Army personnel (All schools in Kansas City participate). Each year in February they hold a Queen Coronation Ball in which only R.O.T.C. cadets and their guests can attend.

The Southeast R.O.T.C. Brigade is proud to have two fine award winning Drill Teams. The Commander of the Male Drill Team for 1977-78 is Cadet Col. Keith McClendon. Last year at the State Drill Meet in Lexington, Mo. the Male Drill Team Placed 1st in the Male High School Division. The Female Drill Team Commander for 1977-78 is 1st Lt. Susie Russell. The Female Drill Team also accomplished a great deal at the Lexington Drill Meet. They Placed 1st in the Female High School Division. Together at the Annual Field Day Competition Southeast brought home to the Castle 7 1st Place Trophies, 1 2nd Place, and 1 3rd Place Trophy. We thing they will continue to be the NUMBER ONE R.O.T.C. Brigade in the city. We also want to wish the Male and Female Drill Teams lots of luck at the 1977-78 Drill Meet in Lexington, Mo.

As you, the class of 1978, depart, you take with you memories of experiences that can never be repeated. Cherish the happy events as well as the sad, for they are what will help you as young adults, make it in the world. Do not look around for the friends you will leave behind but do not forget them. Instead, look forward to better things in life for yourself and for your peers. Make good the things you have strived for in the years you have attended Southeast. Use your education for all the good it will do, and if it is used correctly a great deal will be done. Better yourself with further education for what it can do for you and the world.

Before you pull the shade down on your past and open the window to your future, be sure that there is nothing that you have left undone for it may haunt you for the rest of your life. The Crusader staff wishes the class of 1978 all the best for the future. Good luck.

Students Guided By Vice-Principals

George Buckner

Even Knights and Ladies can get out of line occasionally, and our administrators devote the majority of their time guiding students' actions and establishing means of discipline when necessary. These active and arduous administrators are: Curtis Rogers, George Buckner, William Polk, Thomas Levin, Fredrick James and Thomas Myers. They strive, in Their daily tasks, to present the ideals by which a truly chivalrous Knight would live. Be it their offices or in the halls among students, they demonstrate benevelance and understanding in their relations with the whole student body.

Counselors Prepare Students For Future

Counselors are always busy assisting students, whether it be for problems concerning academic achievement, college plans, or high school struggles in general. Each student is assigned a specific counselor whom he retains his four high school years. Preparing students to achieve in all facets of life is a tremendous responsibility, but our counselors possess the acumen to handle any arising circumstance.

Office Staff Keeps Records For Students And Faculty

Marie Paige (Secretary)

Keeping track of some 2100 students is an all-day task, as Southeast's efficient office staff can tell. The usual jobs which they perform include enrolling students, filing records and grades, checking on absentes and tardies, preparing transcripts and recording grade point averages.

Then there are countless other services performed; such as relaying messages from home, answering questions for confused students, operating the switchboard and helping the administration.

Science The Pathway To Experiments And Discovery

The two required units in science may be acquired through various courses. General science is useful in helping the student decide which area in which he wishes to specialize. Human science and biology involves the study of all various forms of life. To help to further the ability and desire to experiment, chemistry is available and recommended for those planning to attend college. Our science curriculum climaxes at physics, the study of the relationship between matter and energy. It teaches the student the concepts of the universe and offers explanation of the forces in his environment.

Home Economics - Good for a lifetime. This is the motto of the instructors in the home economics department. They find that home economics contains a three-way borzo horizon. That is providing students with the knowledge to make a good home with preparation for future family responsibilities, be able to have a career as a home economist, and also have a knowledge of the natural, social, and cultural sciences.

The industrial arts classes provide practical experience in electricity, wood, drafting and metal work. An atmosphere of competition and creating pride for those students involved. It helps prepare students for vocational choices later in life.

Editor's Note

As editor of the 1977-78 Crusader Staff, I will always remember the trials and tribulations of putting this yearbook together. As the expertise of each member comes to a close, I've found that our individual endeavors will be spread far and wide.

I hope as you've looked through our yearbook, that it brings back memories of this outstanding school year.

Since the inception of the Crusader, many changes have occured. These changes have included page expansion, color, photography, cover innovations and a continuous array of creative, stimulating, and competent staff.

As a result of the staff's dedication and guest for excellence in producing the theme "A New Beginning," we selected the theme A New Beginning, because of the many changes that have occurred in the past school year. As integration of the school, the first black school superintendent, and career education. We also experienced the worst winter ever and beyond a flood.

At this time a appreciation should be given, to my follow staff members. Brigitte- outstanding work she contributed to our Freshman section and in helping us meet ends. Julia- time and patience for typing all copies and correcting and errors that may have occurred. Dolly- without you our Sophomore section would not be as successful and orderly as it is. Fawna- for the layouts that other staff members were unable to attend to you were there. You were our right arm. Lisa- thank you for your tremendous work throughout the sports section which highlighted the credulous athletes of our school and the future superstars. To Dwayne I say thanks for your continuing cooperation. Keith- looking at the Senior and R.O.T.C. section which was done orderly, I say thank you.

What could I say but, "Thank You," from the bottom for my heart, to one as the dearest advisors, Ms. Doris Jones. Words can not express the deepest appreciation that should be given to someone as kind as you, for spending all the long hours and hard work that you have displayed throughout this school year. As editor, I've had a number of problems, but there was not one too large that your intelligence could not bear. Since working so close to a person as dear heated as you, I look to her as a mother. Without you our book would not have been successful. As a child everyone sets goals in their life, which they one day hope to achieve. I feel that you have achieved them and accomplished a whole lot more. I will never forget you.

To a person with a lot of patience I say "Thank You," to Mr. Entine. From all the hard work that you displayed this year. Your dedication is expressed through your pictures. Each year the editor says thanks to the administration, and teachers. This year I would like to express my thanks for your cooperation in letting students leave and miss your classes in order to take pictures, for this edition of the annual yearbook. Without your cooperation, we may not have had the pictures which make up the yearbook.

As I look back on the school year which has past so quickly and all the achievements which were made, I hope that next year will be just as successful as this one even more so. To the graduating class of 78, everyone has a special talent let's seek it out and go far. Education doesn't end in high school, there are many endeavors that you will come upon and success and victory will follow with hard work and a desire to succeed.

Senior Farewell

Overcoming one change and drifting into another dimension of time, Life of the Living and of reasoning.

Beginning to understand one dilemma and encoutering newer, obstructions, longer anguish, and perilous sequences of certain situations.

Searching for a new love and acquiring an even harder responsibility for a true, liberal love that implies a more penetrating emotion.

Realizing a confused state of thinking and becoming more aware of the incomprehensible behavior of your inner mind.

Suceeding in one distinct division of this amiable life and continuing to prevail its ambigous expectations, hallucinations and realizations.

Finally understanding why a graduation is but a stepping stone to greater heights and newer experiences to a more successful life.

We the 40th graduating class of Southeast Senior High School would like to say farewell to the school that has indeed played an important part in our lives, and has made it possible for us to know that as young Negroes in the year of l978, are the leaders of tomorrow and the success of yesterday's Black people.
